THE RAYMOND EXCURSION

A LETTER FROM NEW MEXICO

SANTA FE N M April 29, 1882

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

Since writing you last we have made considerable progress in our onward march to the Pacific slope We have been all over the State of Colorado, and have seen the wonders of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway In order to go from Pueblo to Leadville it is necessary to cross the mountains, and six years ago it was deemed impossible to construct a road for pack mules On Wednesday last we went over these mountains via Grand Canon of the Arkansas and Marshall's pass in a train of cars, absolutely riding above the clouds Leaving Canon City the road follows the bed of the Arkansas river, winding round impossible curves, steadily ascending some times as much as two hundred and eighty feet to the mile, with an average of two hundred and eleven feet. Passing through the Royal gorge, where the space between two cliffs each over 1,000 feet high was so narrow, and the river was so deep and swift that a bridge was constructed over which the train passes, suspended by iron arms driven into the solid cliff on each side, our train halted and we were allowed to examine this wonderful structure Standing upon this bridge one could look up the narrow space between those rugged walls and see the snow on the peaks above the clouds Still continuing upward, we climbed with much fear on the part of our ladies to Marshall's Pass Here we were ten thousand six hundred and seventy feet above the level of the sea Snow which had lain for years without melting was all around us Within a stone's throw were two little streams quietly starting on their course one to the Pacific and the other to the Gulf of Mexico We were far above the clouds, standing on the grand Continental divide We could only remain, a few moments, as many of the party (myself included) were unable to breathe owing to the lightness and dry condition of the atmosphere Several of the party were quite sick for a few hours. Leaving this scene of grandeur just as the sun was setting, we were not prepared for another more grand on the following morning Continuing our journey all night, we awoke to find ourselves climbing the Vela Pass where the grade was so steep that it required three engines to pull five cars Arriving at the top, we at once started across the San Luis valley, a beautiful stretch of prairie far up among the mountains, two hundred miles long, passing Fort Garland, when our boys in blue came out to the train to meet us Crossing the Rio Grande, a mere brook at this point we go up up, up, until, rising before us, an immense cliff the very peak of one of these mountains, bars our way Shooting into darkness, we go through six hundred feet of tunnel and find ourselves, as we emerge into sunlight, upon a trestle bridge where you can look down to the valley below, 1600 feet Not a pleasant situation truly, and we voted, as a party, that we had ridden over passes enough and had become gorged with gorges and with Tallic gorge we closed our mountain course Alighting from the train we were served with a picnic dinner, and by means of instruments brought with us, we established a telegraph office and were soon in communication with Maine Resuming our journey we continued our journey to Las Vegas Hot Springs where the finest hotel between Chicago and San Francisco is to be found These springs, some twenty in number, come boiling down from the mountains and up from mother earth the water bears hot as 140° Far. This is a great resort for invalids who come for the baths of sulphur water given from these springs

Here I was surprised to find our old friend and townsman, C E Pullen, formerly City Engineer, of Bangor, and who is now Superintendent of Affairs at the Springs. The property is owned by a corporation, and they are sparing no expense to make it attractive. We remained at the Springs until this morning, when we came over the A. T. & S. F R R to this place. As your readers are doubtless aware this is the oldest city in this country, and is today hardly civilized. It has a population of 8,000 of whom 5,500 are Mexicans. They live in Adobe houses, which are houses made of sun dried brick, manufactured from the common mud of the country, by hand These houses are nearly all one story high, and cover an immense amount of ground The people are, for the most part, ignorant, lazy and shiftless. There is nothing about the town showing enterprise, except what has been the result of being put in railroad communication with the outside world. One can hardly realize that he is not in Mexico, where we shall be during the coming week, if we are not captured by the noble red men, who are quite too numerous in this section just now. But with soldiers on every side, I have no doubt you will be troubled again.

The Democrat says in the Robinson Cobb house Saturday, at Oxford, Arthur Whiting was caught in a belt and carried round a shaft many times, completely stripping his clothes off, his shirt sleeves and boots only remaining. News has been received of the sudden death of Cyrus T Daniels, Judge of Probate of Rice county Russas, which occurred April 28 The deceased was 37 years of age, a native of Maine, but being admonished that the severity of the climate of his native State was slowly and surely undermining his health, he left a large and lucrative law practice in Aroostook county some three years ago and settled in the Kansas Valley His sterling character, splendid education and remarkable attainments soon pushed him upward to positions of honor and trust but the seed of that fatal malady consumption proved too deeply rooted and he was cut down in the full vigor of manhood

MAINE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AT HOLLOWELL

AN APPEAL FOR ANOTHER BUILDING

To the Friends of the Friendless.

In coming to you with this appeal in behalf of the friendless and neglected girls of our State we follow the instructions of the Trustees of the Maine Industrial School for Girls, who at the recent meeting appointed the undersigned committee with the understanding that they should take immediate action to bring this cause before the public, with the expectation thereby, of securing sufficient funds to build an additional home for this class of girls, who are living idle, unpromising lives, or are found in circumstances that will ultimately lead them into the paths of vice and immorality

Persons unfamiliar with this work can have little appreciation of the vast amount of good that is accomplished by means of such Schools not alone in New England, but throughout the civilized world The School at Hallowell was opened but a little more than seven years ago, during which time some one hundred and fifty girls have been rescued from becoming outcasts of society, and trained to habits of usefulness and industry

There are at the present time forty inmates in a building that was intended for but thirty with many applicants waiting for admission This being the condition of things, it seems of the greatest importance that another Home should be immediately erected, which in all probability would be fully occupied in a very short time.

This additional building would insure not only a safe home and useful instruction to a larger number of these girls—but would enable the managers to provide better facilities for classifying and governing those already under their charge

To build and equip such a Home, with modern appliances, and make it the means of substantial good to the class whom it is intended to shelter, will require some fifteen thousand dollars

In presenting this appeal—it is not without faith in the benevolence of the men and women of Maine to meet this want gladly and munificently One subscription of a thousand dollars has already been paid in for this purpose, another of like amount is positively promised,—and a third is in prospect.

Now who will continue this good work, and make it possible for the managers to rescue from poverty, crime and misery, this constantly increasing class of girls, who in their maturity will help to fill our poor-houses and prisons, and add heavier burdens to our tax payers, unless the demand is met promptly and well. Any one desiring to contribute in aid of this important benevolent object may communicate with either member of the committee.

Amounts either large or small, will be gratefully received and promptly acknowledged.

Respectfully submitted,

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation will be entitled to one delegate, and for each seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1880, an additional delegate, and for a fraction of forty votes in excess of seventy-five votes, one additional delegate.

The State Committee will be in session in the Reception Room of the City Hall at nine o'clock on the morning of the Convention for the purpose of receiving the credentials of delegates.

All citizens of Maine, whatever may have heretofore been their party affiliations, who believe in the purity of the ballot and honesty in its count; in popular government unobstructed by Executive usurpations; in an independent and honest Judiciary, whose Judges shall not be exposed to the assaults of partisan hatred and revenge; in a safe and sound currency for the people; in a reasonable encouragement and development of our industries, and protection of our Laborers against the cheap labor of Europe, by wise and judicious laws; in efficient measures for the encouragement of American shipping and shipbuilding; in popular education; in temperance; in an economical, just and efficient administration of public affairs, are cordially invited to unite with the Republicans of the State in selecting delegates to this Convention.

Per order Republican State Committee.

WM. P. FRYE, Chairman.

FRED. N. DOW, Secretary.

The official records of the Grand Army of the Republic show a membership of 85,000 men, all of whom were honorably discharged from the United States service.

The Texas Democracy desire to hold the election of state officers at a special election, so that no Federal Supervisors will be detecting ballot-box frauds which may be necessary to crush out the Independent movement; at least, such is the fair inference.

One lot of ballot-box stuffers in South Carolina escaped punishment through the obstinacy of a Democratic juryman, who said: "If God came into the jury room and told me to find these defendants guilty, I would not do it." The "standing aside" of jurors by the Government's counsel is not a crying offence in view of this fact.

One Bourbon member of Congress from Mississippi proposes to run his campaign after his own ideas. He is said to have ordered the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee not to send any documents into his district. He has also refused to pay the sum the committee assessed him, and evidently does not propose to put himself under any obligations to the party.

The Republican candidates in the field for David Davis's seat in the Senate are ex-Senator Oglesby, Governor Cullum and Green B. Raum. On the Democratic side ex-Governor Palmer and Congressman Morrison are talked of. The Legislature that will choose the next Senator is to be elected on a new apportionment of the Legislative districts just made.

Ex-Congressman Chalmers, of the Shoestring District of Mississippi, is reported to have been so angered by the failure of his party to prevent his being ousted from his seat that he is determined to have revenge. He is reported in the Cincinnati Commercial as having said before leaving Washington that "he was disgusted with the Bourbons, and proposed to silly himself with the Liberal movement in Mississippi."

At her first appearance since the death of her husband, on the stage of Albert Hall, London, Madame Nilsson was dressed in deepest mourning and her first note betrayed her agitation by a tremulous quiver. But she soon bravely conquered herself, and her full, strong voice rang through the hall with all its old time sweetness. The audience applauded rapturously, but she firmly declined the encore.

The Portland (Me.) Argus (Dem.) is in distress because there can be no tariff revision for three years. While Congress was Democratic it did not feel the people's burdens so keenly. It says that the Tariff Revision bill should have been passed two years ago, and so it would have been had not the anti-protection Democrats opposed the measure. But why wouldn't such a measure have been as much of a victory for manufacturing corporations as now?—Boston Journal.

A Washington despatch of May 9 says: A serious accident happened to the venerable Alex. H. Stephens as he was coming into the Capitol at noon to-day which is feared will result fatally. Mr. Stephens's lower limbs are paralyzed, and in order to get in and out of the Capitol he is assisted by a crutch and by a stout colored man.

As he ascended part way up the steps both the colored man and the crutch gave way simultaneously, and he was thrown violently to the ground. He was removed to the National Hotel, when his physicians were immediately summoned, and express grave doubts of his recovery. Should the injuries be found to be slight, some apprehension is expressed as to the favorable recovery from the severe shock to his system.

According to the Lewiston Journal, Governor Plaisted appeared before the Greenback State Committee for the purpose of "defining his position." Why this was necessary, no one can tell. Perhaps it is hoped that Solon Chase's little band will be scooped if His Excellency comes down flat-footed. If the Journal is correctly informed, Governor Plaisted is opposed to any entangling alliances with the Democrats. He is said to have declared himself a Greenbacker now, that he will live a Greenbacker and die a Greenbacker; that if the Democrats take him it must be as a Greenback candidate. He said moreover that if he is elected it will be by the back towns and the cross roads and not by the front tiers. His Excellency before making these remarks (if he did make them) should have sworn every man to tell no other except a follower of Solon Chase, since it is possible that even in Maine a few Democrats, on an off year, may refuse to vote for a man who says that he is no Democrat and if Democrats vote for him it must be as a Greenbacker. If he undertakes to ride both the Greenback and the Democratic trick mule he had better drive them as one.—Somerset Reporter.

Maine farmers interested in the culture of sweet corn for canning will, perhaps, be gratified to learn that the languishing business of J. W. Jones & Co., is likely to be resuscitated, and have new life infused into it by the connection of two New York firms—Thurber & Co. and N. H. Dudley & Co.,—who propose to run the factories established in the State by Jones, if farmers will come forward and subscribe to plant the required number of acres of corn to warrant the necessary outlay of putting the factories in running order. This arrangement affords no balm to the creditors of the old concern, other than the crumb of comfort they may be able to abstract from indulging in a reasonably sure hope that this season, at least, they will get pay for their corn. The proposition is to pay for the corn as delivered three and a half cents per can of twenty-six ounces of corn, which is quite an advance over last year's prices. The business of arranging to run the factory is in the hands of Gen. C. P. Mattocks, of Portland, who proposes to visit the farmers in the vicinity of the different factories with a view to reviving the interest in the canning business. This arrangement is entirely independent of Jones, and so far as the year's operations are concerned it would seem that the company is on an absolutely safe foundation. Gen. Mattocks as trustee and general business manager, is backed by the parties above named, the former of which, Messrs Thurber & Co., is the largest sweet corn handling house in the world.—Lewiston Journal.

IRELAND'S ASSASSINS ENCOUNTERED IN THEIR FLIGHT.

A cable despatch of May 8th says: Most important information has just reached me. Two men named Courtenay and McBride, in the employment of Mr. O'Neil, a sculptor, were returning from Maynooth with a dray at 8 o'clock on Saturday night. When within a mile and a quarter of the village of Lucan, which is four miles from Dublin on the Chapdizod road, they met a red-backed car with a horse bathed in sweat and galloping at a very rapid pace. Four men were on the car and appeared to be in a terrible state of excitement. They shouted to the driver of the dray "Clear the road." This he was unable to do in time, and as the car pulled up to prevent a collision he had a good look at the men. One, more excited than the rest, struck at him with a heavy stick. He slashed in return with his whip. The man again aimed a blow, but a companion held his arm. The back of the car was by this time past, and the horse was again put to a gallop. Mr. Courtenay says that he can identify two of the men. He has given a most accurate description. He states that they were all respectably dressed One wore a buff colored dust coat. There was no number on the car. The driver was a young man. A rumor was current that the car driver had been found beyond Lucan with his throat cut, but there was no confirmation of the report given by the police.

OUR WAR VESSELS.

WHAT IT WILL COST TO REPAIR THEM—THE MOST POWERFUL GUN.

In response to a resolution of inquiry from the House, Secretary Chandler states, in an elaborate report, that no one of the 67 serviceable vessels in the American navy is in condition to engage in battle with an enemy of the same general classification. Two of them can be put in that condition, except as to ordnance, in one month each. Others will require (except as to ordnance) from one to two years. To manufacture the guns, ammunitions and equipments required for rearming these 67 vessels would require from five to seven years. It would require an expenditure of $22,514,111 to put these vessels in the desired condition. The least expensive would be the Yantic, whose repairs and rearmament would cost but $51,481. The most expensive would be the monitors—Amphitrite costing $1,535,500, the Puritan $1,583,000, and the Terror $1,557 500. All the others for less than $1,000,000 apiece. Secretary Chandler further states that 45 vessels, storeships and tugs are utterly unserviceable for war purposes. The report of the Secretary contains the following interesting reply to the query of the House resolution: "What is the penetrating power in inches of solid iron armor at 1000 yards distance, and range of the most powerful gun actually in service, and how many of the sea guns are actually available for sea service?" The most powerful gun actually in service is the 8-inch muzzle-loading rifle (converted). Theoretically, its penetrating power in inches of solid iron armor at 1000 yards distance is equal to nine inches. Calculation shows that the projectile from this gun, at a distance from the muzzle of 1000 yards, will perforate a plate of solid wrought iron eight and one-half inches thick, the energy of the shot being just sufficient to carry it through the plate. Its theoretic range at 29° elevation is 10,380 yards, and there are 61 of these guns actually available for service. The weight of this gun is 17,350 pounds; weight of its projectile, 180, and its charge is 35 pounds of powder.

Be it ordained as follows:

SEC. 1. Every owner or keeper of a dog shall annually cause it to be registered, described, numbered and licensed in the office of the City Clerk, and shall cause it to wear around its neck a collar distinctly marked with the owner's name and registered number; and such license shall expire on the 1st Monday of May next after the same is given.

SEC. 2. The City Clerk is hereby authorized to grant such license in the name of the City, to any person applying therefor and paying into the City Treasury the sum of one dollar for a male dog and two dollars for a female dog, and to the City Clerk 20 cents for such license.

SEC. 3. Whoever keeps a dog contrary to the provisions of this Ordinance shall forfeit a sum not exceeding ten dollars, to the use of the City. And any person may, or police officer shall, kill or cause to be destroyed all dogs going at large and not licensed and collared as aforesaid.

THE PERUVIAN INVESTIGATION.

The Committee at New York

NEW YORK, May 10 The sub-committee of the House Committee of Foreign Affairs examined Robert E Randall, who is confined to his bed in a New York hotel, this afternoon. He said he was counsel for the Credit Industriel Company of Paris Never knew Ministers Morton, Hurlbut or Kilpatrick to be connected in any way with the company. He was employed in September, 1880 and shortly afterwards entered into negotiations with Morton, Bliss & Co, which resulted in the firm becoming the financial agents of the company The contract was made in Paris in June, 1881 Witness called on Minister Morton, at Paris, a member of the firm, but he positively declined to speak about the matter He said Mr. Bliss had entire charge of the business of Morton, Bliss & Co

They signed a contract to act for six years, it being feared the United States would fail to mediate between Chili and Peru substantial agents were required at New York The Industrial Company had no connection with the Shipherd Peruvian Company. Witness had interviews with Secretaries Evarts and Blaine and frequently with the latter in relation to the mediation proposition introduced to the Department of State Oct. 1880. Guiteau's Case

Col Reed resumed his argument on the bill of exceptions in the Guiteau case before the Supreme Court of the District sitting in banc this morning. He called attention to a revision of the District code prepared by two reputable lawyers. Passing from the question of jurisdiction the counsel stated that he proposed to discuss but four or five of the numerous exceptions taken on the trial. He then proceeded to discuss the evidence for the prosecution admitted at the trial and objected to by the defence

The counsel then discussed the question of insanity and held it was an error on the part of Judge Cox in refusing to grant the eleventh prayer of defendant's counsel, asking the Court to charge in effect that to constitute sanity there must be not only a discrimination between right and wrong, but the power to follow the discrimination Col Reed closed his argument with an appeal to the Court to save, under the law and by law, this fair land from the shame and her judiciary from the disgrace of sending an insane man to the gallows Adjourned till to-morrow

In Bangor it was refused the new Opera House The original Muldoon's Picnic is a very funny affair, performed by some of the best variety artists in the profession. The monstrosity that struck our city had evidently stolen some of the posters and that was the only feature of the original company that they carried. The sad news of the shooting tragedy by which Capt. Frank B. Ames and his wife came to their death in New York on Monday night, as chronicled in the WHIG of yesterday morning, startled the community in a high degree Capt. Ames and his wife were both so well known in this vicinity that their decease seems to very many a personal loss and the terrible manner in which death was brought about makes the affliction still greater.

During yesterday an inquest was held over the bodies. No new information was elicited and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts. After the inquest, the remains were placed on the cars and will arrive in this city by express on this morning's train. L. J. Morse, Esq., will return to Bangor on the same train with the remains. The funeral of Capt Ames and his wife will be held at their late residence, 73 Essex street, this (Thursday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral will be strictly private.

SHOCKING AFFAIR.

A Small Boy Probably Fatally Burned

Shortly before noon yesterday a young son of Daniel J. Cronin was frightfully burned. Mr. Cronin is carpenter for Stoddard & Hellier and lives at the corner of Third and Walter streets. At the time above mentioned Mr. Cronin's boy, about four years old, was playing around the embers of a bon-fire in a garden at the corner of Parker and Third streets and a portion of his garments caught fire from the smouldering flames. The boy immediately started to run for home and the flames spread to other parts of his clothing rapidly. At the corner of Patten and Third streets the unfortunate boy fell to the ground. Help came to his rescue and everything possible was done for him. The little fellow was frightfully burned and suffered great agony. It was expected that the injuries sustained would prove fatal.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Magnificent Concerts in the Opera House—Superb Vocal and Instrumental Selections by Very Eminent Talent.

The musical festival opened at the Opera House yesterday. During the forenoon and early afternoon rehearsals were held, and at three o clock in the afternoon a matinee was given and in the evening another concert was held.

The festival is under the direction of Mr L A Torrens The chorus embraces lady and gentlemen singers from various towns and cities in the State and will probably receive still further additions upon the arrival of to-day's trains. Special interest attaches to the concerts from the galaxy of eminent Boston soloists in attendance Such talented artists as Mrs H F Knowles and Mrs H. E H Carter, sopranos, Mr J C. Bartlett, tenor, Mr D M Babcock, basso, Mr. Walter Emerson, cornetist, Mr Van Santvoord flutist, and Mrs Martha Dana Shepard, accompanist, should be sufficient guarantee that the festival is a musical event of very exceptional importance in this vicinity

The matinee opened in the Opera House at three o'clock. The attendance was not large and it is to be regretted that a larger number were not present. The programme was about the same as published by us yesterday morning and was listened to with rapt attention by those in attendance No complaint could be made of a lack of appreciation on the part of the audience The various participants acquitted themselves superbly and gave a grand musical treat The applause was bountiful and the encores were very numerous The chorus did not come up in numbers to expectations but sang efficiently and well.

In the evening, a magnificent concert was presented and it proved in all respects one of the grandest musical entertainments ever given in our city The attendance, as at the matinee, was of limited proportions and we can but regret that the splendid treat was not listened to by greater numbers Such a superb entertainment should have been greeted with full seats and we would have been pleased to have seen the auditorium of the Opera House thronged The concert opened by the chorus "Triumphal March" from the Oratorio of Naaman by Costa The chorus with Mr Torrens as conductor, sang with good effect. Mr J C Bartlett followed with "By the Blue Alsatian Mountains" and in response to a hearty encore gave "I am Standing 'Neath the Casement" Mr. Bartlett is no stranger in our city and his sweet tenor is ever welcome, he sang last evening to very excellent advantage. Mr Walter Emerson, the famous cornetist, played as a cornet solo "Russian Airs and Variations" and encored gave "Old Folks at Home." His superb playing and brilliant execution was universally admired and applauded A song "Humpty Dumpty" by a quartettee composed of Mrs Knowles, Mrs Wasgatt, Mr. Bartlett and Mr Babcock was next presented and in response to vigorous applause was repeated. Mrs E T Wasgatt, the well known contralto of our city, appeared in the quartette to excellent advantage and won fresh laurels Mrs Martha Dana Shepard, the brilliant accompanist, played as a piano solo "Alice" by Ascher and her superb rendition being generously received and heartily applauded she played another choice selection Mrs. H E H Carter appeared in a song "Lo! Here the Gentle Lark" with a flute obligato by Mr Van Santvoord, and encored sang again, Mr Emerson playing a cornet obligato This gifted vocalist has frequently sung before Bangor audiences and is ever a favorite but never before has she given so highly favorable an impression as on this occasion A song followed by Mr D M Babcock and his deep and rich basso voice was given excellent scope, vigorously encored he gave an excellent song in response. The next piece was "The Heavens are Telling," from Haydn's Oratorio of "The Creation," and was joined in by the chorus with solos by Mrs. Carter, Mr Bartlett and Mr Babcock Mrs H. F Knowles followed in a solo and sang Cavatina in a very brilliant and magnificent style The lady possesses a superior voice of great compass and her superb rendition of this selection was greatly admired In response to bountiful applause she was recalled and favored the audience with more of her charming singing. The next was a very finely executed flute solo, "Concert Fantasie," by Mr Van Santvoord and was splendidly received The close was a trio and chorus, "The Lord is Great," with solos by Mrs. Knowles, Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Babcock Throughout the evening, applause was continuously bestowed and although the audience was not large the enthusiasm was great and the artists were appreciated.

The closing concerts will be given to-day. At three o'clock in the afternoon a matinee will commence The programme will be one of excellence and will embrace solos by the artists from away and miscellaneous selections. Prices have been reduced for the matinee to twenty five cents to all parts of the house. The final concert will be held in the evening and will commence at eight o'clock. All the various soloists will take part and selections from Elijah will be sung. A programme of great superiority will be presented and lovers of music will find a rare treat in store for them The concerts to-day should be largely attended

THE FIRE AT LINCOLN CENTRE

Additional Particulars of the Serious Conflagration.

The conflagration at Lincoln Centre on Tuesday afternoon proved a very serious blow to that village. The loss entailed is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000 and the insurance is less than $5,000.

The fire caught on the roof of T. Heald & Co.'s store adjoining the railroad station. A very high wind was blowing at the time and in a few brief moments adjacent buildings were enveloped in the flames. The fire spread with such lightning rapidity that but little was saved and of the twenty-two buildings burned the entire contents were very generally consumed.

The store of T. Heald & Co., the store, large storehouse and stable of Butterfield & Gates and the Chesley store now occupied by this firm as a storehouse, the store of Wm. R. Gifford and the millinery establishment of Mrs Gates were destroyed. Among the dwelling houses burned were the following: Wm. R. Gifford's house, a house belonging to Butterfield & Gates and occupied by a tenant; J. Quincy Adams' house; James Adams' house; Mrs. Carpenter's house occupied by Depot Master Averill; Mrs. Scamman's house with stable adjoining, Mr. Farwell's house and stable and Mr. Chesley's house. Babcock's hotel was somewhat scorched but not seriously damaged.

There are many sad features of the catastrophe. The insurance was but small and the great bulk of the property was uninsured. The loss falls very heavily upon many and there are numerous instances where persons lost practically all they possessed. It has been extremely difficult to arrive at an approximate of the loss but it was generally conceded in Lincoln Centre yesterday that the loss was from $15,000 to $20,000 The insurance as far as ascertained up to the present time consists of $3 275 for Butterfield & Gates and $1,400 for J Q and James Adams

AMUSEMENTS

Salsbury's Troubadours.

The large sale of seats yesterday is a sure indication that crowded houses will be the rule during the engagement of the Salsbury's Troubadours. Of a prominent member of the troupe, the New York Dramatic Times says Miss Nellie McHenry holds her rank as one of the best soubrettes our stage possesses. There is hardly anything that she cannot do. Vivacious as a cricket, sparkling as Clicquot, bright as a new dollar, and her flow of animal spirits never languishes She lights up any scene she takes a hand in We know no actress who can sing comic songs as she does, and few who can dance as well

Notes

Next week the popular artists, Frank S. and Henrietta Chanfrau will play an engagement at the Opera House The programme will be shortly announced.

Among the approaching attractions at the Opera House are the tragedian Thomas W Keene as Richard III., and Joseph Jefferson as Rip Van Winkle and Bob Acres

The wardrobe of the Corinne "Merrie-Makers" was attached in Chicago Sunday evening last, in a suit for $204 brought by Mr Charles Pearson against Mr and Mrs Thomas Fitherty. A bond was promptly given and the property released

Miss Georgie Cayvan has been engaged by Mr Frank Mordaunt to play the principal female part in "Old Shipmates," which is soon to be produced in New York.

OBITUARY.

We find the following facts concerning the life of the late Lt Col G W Patten, U. S A, whose death at Houlton, April 28, was announced in this paper, in the Aroostook Pioneer 'The deceased was born in Newport, R. I, Dec. 25th, 1808. A desire for education was early developed, and at the age of sixteen he graduated at Brown University. He soon after entered as cadet at West Point Military Academy, where he graduated with honors four years later His military career commenced with a commission as lieutenant of a company of Infantry stationed at Fort Gratiot at head of St. Clair river He served under Gen. Scott in the Blackhawk campaign He was ordered to Hancock Barracks in this town in 1833, two years after which, in 1835, he went to Florida and fought through the seven years of Indian conflict known as the Seminole war. From 1842 to '46 he occupied a military post on Lake Ontario. He served during the Mexican war, and was wounded in the memorable battle of Cerro Gordo, April 18th, 1847. After the close of the Mexican war he spent several years on the western frontier. We next find him stationed at Fort Ripley, Minnesota, from which post he was subsequently ordered to Abercrombie in Dakota, where he built a fort in the midst of untamed, hostile Indians, but with whom, during his stay, he established and maintained friendly relations. About 1855 he returned to Fort Ripley where he remained until 1861, when he was promoted as major of the 9th Infantry Regiment, and ordered to California, thence to Vancouver. He was placed upon the retired list in 1864, with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, since which he has served upon court martials and performed other like services in the interest of the government. He was known in military circles as the soldier poet, and in 1867 published a book of poems entitled "Voices of the Border." Ever faithful to his trust, with a name untarnished through a long, continuous and active service, he peacefully passes to the higher life crowned with honors. During the past four years he has resided in Houlton, and was preparing to erect a dwelling the present season upon the site of the Isaac Smith mansion destroyed by fire two years ago. He leaves a wife (daughter of the late Isaac Smith), four daughters and two sons, one of the latter a lieutenant in the U. S. army and stationed at Poughkeepsie, N. Y

[The deceased was known to some of our older citizens as a gentleman of genial address and one that made friends wherever he visited In former years he favored the WHIG with some of his verses which were always read with pleasure Not many men have wooed the poetic muse while they have followed Mars But a previous generation of schoolboys favored his "The Seminole's Reply," once a familiar piece for school-room recitation And the vocalists of those older days thought highly of his ballads, many of which were set to music He was the author of the song "Joys that We've Tasted" and of "The Emigrant's Child," a ballad in which the sufferings of a party of California emigrants on the old overland trail were depicted—ED. BAR HARBOR, MT DESERT, ME

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS MADE AND A BRILLIANT AND SUCCESSFUL SEASON PROMISED

[Correspondence of the Boston Journal]

BAR HARBOR, Me, May 3. Though winter has but just departed, and cold, bleak winds are lingering yet about the bay, and trailing snow banks still cling to the mountains that rise so grandly to the south of it Bar Harbor is all astir, and is making great preparations for the summer that is coming Unprecedented improvements have been made since the close of last season yet our enterprising and ambitious citizens are not satisfied, but will go right on trying to make their delightful resort a little more inviting and a little more endearing

A few years ago and this was known only as a secluded spot on the far coast of Maine, shut out from the mainland by Frenchman's Bay and shaded by high mountain peaks To-day it is the great summer city of the East It has a most pleasant and healthful situation on high dry land, with good drainage, excellent water and all desirable appointments The amount of money appropriated for highways and sidewalks is much larger than ever before Hills have been cut down and rivers spanned to give the rusticators grand driveways and fine walks and pretty groves have been prepared for their pleasure All over the island are exhibited evidences of an awakening spirit, though in some sections a still greater manifestation of progress is to be desired

The farm lands of the island are remarkably fertile, but more attention to gardening and less to selling house lots would produce better results. More than $2,000,000 have been expended in building improvements since last summer, yet all have not built who desired to do so from the great difficulty of obtaining lumber and workmen. Large blocks have been built on Main street, which give that part of the town a city like appearance By far the costliest cottage at Bar Harbor is that now being built on Eden street shore by W S Gurney, of New York It is said that the place when completed will cost about $250 000 It is more of the palace than cottage. The elegant residence of Mrs R Scott, of Baltimore, has the finest site in town, as is so acknowledged by all Mrs James Leeds, of New York Dr. R Amory, of Brookline, Mass, and Dr H Derby, of Boston, have each built cottages of the $50 000 class. Mrs Pendleton of Philadelphia, and Mrs Coleman, of New York, are about building cottages even more expensive The architecture of these buildings is almost invariably of the picturesque Queen Anne style, and so great is this tendency that even the "natives" in the utmost complacency assume the many gabled postures and the angular articulation

The hotels are looking up The Rodick House is the largest hotel in Maine It is an immense affair, and has been supplied with modern improvements. It has a music room 100 by 70 feet The Hotel St Saveur is an imposing structure, well built with 170 rooms Fred Alley goes in for the best Mr DeGrasse Fox A W Mills J [illegible] Manchester and others are making hotel additions There are more than twenty hotels at Bar Harbor yet no landlord has failed and the proprietorship of each house remains the same The Hamor Block in front of the Grand Central Hotel built by the proprietors of that house is 150 feet long and five stories high One of its stores has been leased to a Boston man for the modest sum of $800 for three months The Grant Block and Bunker building are pretentious structures The people who come here next summer will not be compelled to pay fabulous prices for everything they have for only such charges will be made as may be required to secure the best The several hotels have been connected by telephone, and electric bells and electric lights have been introduced in almost every instance

The Eastern Railroad Company is to have one of the finest piers to be found in all the East. The several steamboat lines will run as last year and the popular tally-ho coaches will commence to run two daily trips between here and Bangor on the first of next month The Bar Harbor Tourist will commence its third year and all the hotels will be opened early in June Orders for rooms are coming in rapidly and the indications are that Bar Harbor with its accommodations for eight thousand tourists will be unable to entertain all who may come to her shores in July and August

KING KALAKAUA.

His New Palace Just Completed at Honolulu.

[From the Boston Herald.]

No doubt many readers of the Herald have a vivid recollection of the visit of King Kalakaua of the Sandwich Islands to the United States in the fall of 1874, and the lively interest his royal highness conceived for the customs and institutions of America. Being a gentleman of excellent education, he easily recognized the advanced position the young republic had taken in her competitive race with the effete governments" of the old world. That these impressions were to bear fruit to be garnered by our home industries the following will illustrate

A NEW PALACE

Thirty-five years ago, on a gently rising knoll, about one mile back from the sea line King Kamehameha erected in the city of Honolulu a royal palace of unpretentious dimensions, which served as the building of state until the accession of Kalakaua. In the spring of 1874 the new king conceived the idea of building a new pala, and immediately upon his arrival in this country he set about, aided by his high chamberlain, Col Judd, for the purpose of securing plans and estimates for his proposed new domicile. Boston was searched for an architect who could give the king a satisfactory drawing of what he required. After this had been found, instructions were given to have the old palace razed, and a new one erected in its stead. An Englishman had been engaged to put up the building, but, with the proverbial pugnacity of his kind, he attempted to force his ideas upon the king against his wish, the result being the withdrawal of John Bull and the substitution in his place of Mr S. C. Wilder, then Minister of the Interior, who successfully carried the work to its completion.

A PASSING DESCRIPTION.

As was mentioned above, the new palace is erected on the site of the old building. It is two stories high, with English basement and the material used is brick and concrete, the former having been brought from San Francisco and the latter from Portland Or. Native and Chinese labor had been employed on the building, but with poor success, and not until a force of American artisans had been sent out did the structure begin to assume its architectural proportions. Viewed from a distance, the building presents a light and grace ul appearance, with its cue bastions, on either broad verandas, pillars and towers. The verandas extend completely around the palace and are supported by massive columns, the shafts of which are brick surmounted by Corinthian capitals of stone, the embrasures and bases being of wood. At the corners of the verandas boudoirs have been built, which are furnished as our seaside cottages, and will be used by guests who desire a cool and refreshing siesta. The palace is approached by a wide flight of stairs that leads directly into the main corridors on the first floor

INSIDE THE PALACE

On the right of the corridor approaching from the north is the grand reception or throne room which is 68 feet long and 40 feet wide Here all diplomatic interviews will be held, and other matters of state attended to Beyond and next to the grand reception room is the dining room, 36 feet long and 32 feet wide On the left of the corridor are the grand chamberlain's room the king s spare room, eight rooms for servants billiard, china and card rooms, wine and beer vaults and a kitchen On the right of the upper corridor is the king s bedroom, 36 feet long and 26 6 feet wide On this floor are also located the library, music, dre-sing bath and a number of ante-rooms. On the left of the hall is the Queen's room a duplicate of the king s apartment There are also three bathrooms, a number of bedrooms for guests and a few small ante rooms. A marble staircase, 19 feet wide leads from the lower floor to the second story hall In each of the corridors four massive chan eliers are to be suspended These will be of highly burnished brass, bearing the similes of the king s crown, and also his monogram, wrought in artistic designs. Glass pendants, elaborately cut, will be hung in profusion about the delicately interlaid and glitterlog metal.

THE FURNITURE

King Kalakaua, after visiting many of the principal furniture warehouses of the country, was impressed with the fact that the most beautiful upholstering and carved work this came under his inspection were from Boston, and he decided to place his order for furniture with the firm in that city The carrying out of this part of the work was however, left entirely to the judgment of Col. Judd It having been learned in England that Kalakaua favored America in this matter, a number of London manufacturers became almost frantic in their endeavors to have him change his mind and place his order with them, but they pleaded in vain He did, however, secure the services of an English draughtsman for the purpose of furnishing designs, but that was all, and the Boston firm was given instruction to construct 225 pieces of furniture, as designated by specifications A visit to the warerooms discovered the royal decorations to be in an advanced stage of completion and nearly ready for shipment It is proposed to have the articles ready to be sent out about the 1st of June, in charge of artisan accompanying them to their far off distant destination He will superintend their unpacking setting up and arrangement in the palace

DESCRIPTION OF DECORATIONS.

The grand reception or throne room will be decorated in red and gold. At its northern extremity is a dais about 12 inches high, and here will be located two throne chairs They are Gothic in style, beautifully carved, and the wood work heavily laid in gold of two distinct contrasting shades. The upholstering is in red silk brocade There will be 12 other chairs in this room, similarly gilded and upholstered as the throne chairs, but of much small er dimensions. Over the dais, supported by a burnished rod, will be a canopy of red brocade, ornamented with massive fringe of the same shade In the middle of this room will be placed a large circular sofa, covered with satin brocade. The centre pin of this will be surmounted by a beautiful china vase with flowers. The windows will be gilded in heavy red brocatelle, with bars and rings. The cornices are elaborately carved, very deep, completely gilded and each surmounted by a crown and two spears Against the walls three massive pier mirrors will be placed—their dimensions being 12x6 feet, the frames of which are rich in carving and gold

THE AUDIENCE ROOM

This apartment will be tastefully though not as elaborately furnished as the throne room The sofas and chairs are of highly polished and artistically carved walnut, upholstered in blue embossed mohair plush of a delicate tint. Heavy fringe of the same shade is used as trimming. The windows will be hung in the same material as the upholstery and the curtains from brass rings. In this room will be located a cabinet, 12 feet long and 10 feet wide, in which will be placed such curiosities as the King may collect There will also be two s de tables for bric-a-brac.

The library is to be furnished with one large table, 10 feet long and 6 feet wide, and 12 chairs of the Elizabethan style, covered with maroon colored morocco. The wood is of dark cherry, oiled, in the manner known to the trade as dead finish. There are two windows in this room, and he curtains are of Turkish maroon satin.

The music room will contain a centre sofa, six chairs and a music rack of the Elizabethan style, in black ebony, all elaborately carved, the upholstering being in old gold satin. The curtains are hung on elaborately carved ebony poles, and are of be same material as the furniture trimmings.

FOR THE KING'S ROOM

A most elaborate suit of Gothic furniture is being made, which comprises one very beautifully carved bedstead, fitted with ebony and gold mouldings, the canopy and bed curtains being of blue satin delaine and heavily ornamented with costly fringes; also two wardrobes, two dressing tables of mammoth dimensions, 12 chairs, lounger, etc., the coverings being of blue satin delaine. All the furniture in this room, with the exception of the bedstead, is of ebony, abounding in a wealth of the most beautiful and elaborate carvings. There are nine windows, the drapery of which is blue satin, hung on ebony poles.

The Queen's apartments are similar to the King's, except that the draperies will be of red satin delaine, and the woodwork of mahogany, beautifully slashed with gold.

The two guests' rooms will be furnished, one with a suit of cherry upholstered in blue cretonne, and the other with a suit of oiled walnut, covered with ground cretonne This "set" of pieces in these apartments will be a duplicate of what the King's room will contain.

For the dining room a Gothic suit is oiled oak is shown. It consists of two large arm chairs for the King and Queen, which are elegantly carved; 50 dining chairs, one half covered with brown and the other half with maroon morocco of the best English make; two sideboards of exquisite finish and design, and curiously constructed dinner wagon. The seven windows in this room are draped in Turkish maroon satin

The furniture for he lower hall is of oiled walnut, richly upholstered in gray mohair plush. It is of Gothic style and displays the finest of workmanship and a lively taste. It consists of two lounges, two sofas and 12 chairs.

The upper hall will be supplied with a suit of walnut, also in Gothic style, upholstered in Turkish maroon morocco. The pieces are two very large cabinets for curiosities, an extension table, sofas and chairs. This suit is completed, and reflects great credit upon the designer and artisan

The grand chamberlain's room is having prepared for it a beautiful suit of oiled walnut, to be covered with green leather The pieces consist of a lounge, two tables and twelve chairs, the carving of which is elaborate and beautiful.

OTHER DECORATIONS.

The question of who should furnish the gas fixtures for the palace was considered for a long time before a satisfactory conclusion was reached by the King and his advisers. There were a thousand and one firms anxious to secure the contract, all presenting special claims as to excellence of workmanship and design. But a comparison of the best qualities of work submitted for inspection led the King to finally select the firm of Shreve, Crump & Low, of this city.

The contract having, owing to the advice of a well known dealer in this city, were purchased in Eng and as was also the china service, and these a ll that our competitors on the other shore of the Atlantic have furnished for the new palace All the more common furniture, booking utensils, etc , were purchased in San Francisco

A Remarkable Discovery.

THERE IS ONLY ONE

AND THAT WITH SIMPLE NAME.

Beware of imposters, orkites, or any old articles which now suddenly claim to be best They have been tried and found wanting, while this has been proved a remarkable success.

NO LONGFUL NAME.

This curative needs no pompous or incomprehensible title of Greek or Latin to sustain it, but its simple English name appeals directly to the commonsense of the people And the people are signally manifesting their appreciation of its plain frankness by selec ing and using Dr Benson's SKIN CURE in preference to all other professed remedies

Dr C W Benson has long been well known as a successful physician and surgeon and his life study has been the diseases of the nervous system and of the skin, since he has been persuaded to put his New Remedy and Fave rite Prescription as it were, before the market, various things have sprung up into existence, or have woke up from the sleepy state in which they were before, and now claim to be The Great Skin Cure

Beware of imitations, or the various articles which have been advertised for years or struggled along, having no real hold or merit on the public, that now endeavor to keep head above water by advertising themselves as "The Great Skin Cure" None is genuine and reliable, except Dr C W Benson's Skin Cure.
